The SPIRIT SPEAKS

If up to last year, anyone had dared to tell me that ghosts, spirits, or thought-transmission existed - I would have laughed in the face of the speaker. But now I know differently. You may say that every person has a ghost or a spirit. It doesn't make any difference which term you use. The important fact is that this is a reality. So let me tell you what happened to me. And if you doubt it - then I inform you that all of this is on official records.

Five years ago I began to work for one of the largest department stores in the country. Specifically I was a "Labor Relations Counselor." My task was to iron out all kinds of disputes that the employees might have with: other employees with the store's customers; or with department managers; or any other type of complaint. My secretary and sort of assistant was Helen Deane.

Though the store was open on Saturdays, I had the weekends off. That was in my contract. I enjoyed summer sports like fishing, swimming and tennis. And in the winter, there was skiing. I even belonged to a local ski patrol. I came home on a Sunday evening after a weekend of bass fishing. I guess I was a bit overtired. Because no matter how I turned in the bed, I couldn't find a comfortable spot.

Suddenly I saw a peculiar small bluish-white light against the wall. It grew and grew until it took the shape of a woman. It began to speak in a voice I recognized.

"John Whitman, this is Helen Deane calling to you for help. I have always loved you and I hope my love is strong enough to get my message across to you. Sunday I took the bus to Meadowsbrook Park. I went all by myself. I walked on a path to the south side of the lake. There is a small hill there, and an old broken up boat on the shore of the lake. I watched a friendly squirrel playing near me. Then the squirrel ran into a sort of a cave. I followed the little creature. Suddenly the earth seemed to close in. I am trapped inside the cave. You must save me. I know you love me. Help me."

Then the light vanished. I didn't sleep at all.

What to do? I reached for the phone. I knew my secretary's address and phone number. To call or not to call? I thought of what a big fool I would look like if she or her mother answered. I waited for morning and each minute seemed an hour. When I got to my office the phone was ringing.

Her worried mother was on the other end. Her daughter had not as yet returned home. Should she call the police? I told her to wait. I found the number of Meadowsbrook Park, and finally got through to some employee. He listened to me and told me I was a drunk. Then I called the State Police. This time I was careful. I told them only that a Miss Helen Deane was missing. Last known place: Meadowsbrook Park. I would be up there within an hour with some men. Would they meet me there? The answer was a yes.

Within fifteen minutes three store trucks loaded with men who had shovels and picks were headed for the park. We arrived there in record time. The State Troopers were waiting for me. We went to the south side of the lake. I saw the old broken up boat on the shore. We walked to the hill.

"Dig here," I said to my men." Helen Deane is trapped alive inside."

Strange as it seems now, nobody at that moment questioned me to find out how I knew. Even the State Troopers gave a hand. It took us about two hours to remove the dirt. And then Helen Deane walked out of that cave. She looked at me and do you know what I did? I just opened my arms and they enfolded her. She cried and cried. I brushed away her tears.

"But how did you know I was here?" was what she wanted to know. At that moment the full force and importance of her question struck everyone present.

What to say? I had to think in a hurry and then these words went past my lips.

"I knew you were trapped inside just as you knew I loved you all the time."

Whenever Helen visits Meadowsbrook Park - she always goes with her husband - me.
